“High Impact Messages, Spectacular Style”

– Emory Speaks to the Healthcare Industry –

She is also a statistic. And on this fact rest all of the above successes in her life! 20 years ago Emory had breast cancer. It changed her life—brought more focus, power, insight, perspective, drive, and meaning. Any frightening illness can be a nightmare. It can also be a great teacher. We can all move beyond uncertainty and into new visions.

You whose mission is healing face countless challenges. You who face life-threatening illnesses have many others. Whatever your dilemmas and concerns may be, allow them to give you renewed impetus for your future, your dreams, your successes and your relationships. Any challenge contains possibilities for growth. Whether the hurdles you are facing are personal, physical challenges or professional, industry-wide concerns, your best times and greatest victories may well lie ahead of you rather than in the past. Soar with your strengths and understand that even your unchosen circumstances can become springboards. Emory Austin has a strong message for you.

One of America’s star keynote speakers, Emory is sparkingly unforgettable: a rare, combination of warmth, solid substance, intelligence, and humor that is captivating. She will study your needs and create customized material for your gathering with your choice of just the right mix of message, participation, and laughter. Emory brings to your center stage her expertise, refreshing style, uncommon perspectives, and delightful platform presence.
