Scott,

Great to hear from you! Your message to our membership is truly inspirational. When I walked to the back of the room to get "miked" up, you were giving instructions to our members – 90 % male engineers mind you- describing the movement and exercise of your fingers. I was amazed that each and every person that I observed was fully engaged with your instructions. They usually don't "all" participate.

The power to command an audience and lock them in to deep concentration with your message makes you truly unique. You received two standing ovations and inspired us with your experience, drive, persistence and a never-ever give up attitude. The way you infused humor into your story was especially important. As I stated to the audience, you really did your homework on us and you recited very valuable touch points that meant so much to us as a group. Your message has had a deep impact to our group especially in these difficult times and for that we are truly grateful to you!
