Have you ever screamed at the television or Radio?

These Days, Americans have plenty to be outraged about...and you're definitely not alone. The question is what are we going to do about it.

I've noticed a lot of disturbing trends in our country today, and it leads me to believe the United States we know is disappearing and might not survive the next few decades. Consider this:

Political correctness is no longer a plea for equality. Instead, it has become a tool for the greedy to gain more money, more influence, and more power. Our courts constantly condones this farce.

The War in Iraq has cost us far more than money. In addition to billions of American dollars, we've lost troops, stable gas prices, and respect in the eyes of the world.

We are creating a generation of losers with the current view that children are all winners." We are failing our kids by refusing to teach them how to lose.

Violent crimes and frivolous lawsuits have never been more prevalent than they are today. We are becoming a nation of selfish, ego-centric backbiters with nothing better to do than attack each other.

The rest of the world is laughing at us. The once-proud America has become little more than a joke, an example of democracy turning on itself, with our freedom to chose becoming the freedom to act like morons.

Pick up any newspaper, listen to any news broadcast, or browse any newsfeed on the web and you will find examples of Americans behaving badly. This rampant display runs from the average citizen right through the top level of American Politics. The worst factor in the decay of America is our general belief that we must stand by and watch it happen, because there isn't anything we can do about it. I believe that notion is wrong. Outraged Americans are currently the silent majority, but there is no reason for us to remain silent any longer.

Your voice does not have to go unheard. You can contact your representatives, and demand that they bring your America back. You can put a stop to the politically correct idiocy, and raise your children to be strong and intelligent. Our constitution gives you the power to change things. You don't have to wait, when you can instigate.
