

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

3501 Fairfax Drive, Arlington, VA 22226-3500

Division of Information Technology

September 15, 2008

Mr. John D. Sileo
President
The Sileo Group
381 S. Broadway
Denver, CO 80209-1522

Dear John:

On behalf of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), thank you for delivering the second Keynote Address at our recent Privacy Symposium, which was part of our first ever Privacy Awareness Week.

Your presentation was outstanding and thoroughly enjoyed by more than 350 FDIC employees who attended the Symposium in person and many more employees who watched the event via our internal video teleconference and broadcast system. We continue to receive numerous positive comments about your presentation, which our audience found highly inspiring, informative, and fun.

As a result of your presentation, we've seen important progress in employees' awareness toward our agency's goal of protecting sensitive personal information from harms, such as identity theft, through increased employee awareness. Your memorable tips for safeguarding data at home will certainly lead to safer data at FDIC. Please accept these tokens of our appreciation for a job well done.

Once again, thank you making our Symposium a smashing success and for teaching us all to "Think Like a Spy" and say "Hogwash!"

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Michael Bartell", with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Michael Bartell
Chief Information Officer, Chief Privacy Officer and Director, Division of Information Technology