

BOTH PROGRAMMERS AND STUDENTS LOVE THIS 45 MINUTE, LAUGHTER-FILLED ONE-MAN COMEDY SHOW THAT ENDS WITH A RESPONSIBLE ALCOHOL USE MESSAGE!

Russell Roy is an internationally known stand-up comic, author and motivational speaker, who will delight your crowd, and have them rolling in the aisles, as he teaches your students about the responsible use of alcohol, sharing powerful stories from his experiences with addiction. Serious content on responsible alcohol use mixed with a great stand up show!

Using all clean humor, audience interaction, and some very funny 'Top Ten Lists' about campus life THE 'HIGHER' EDUCATION MONOLOGUES entertains students, as it provides important substance abuse education, and promotes responsible alcohol use while on your campus!

Compared to other educational approaches, students prefer this irreverent 'comedy show' to a traditional lecture format – it actually gets them to listen! Undercutting many prevention efforts is student apathy & lack of interest – the stand up comedy component makes preventative alcohol education funny! Young people are encouraged to draw their own conclusions, with this honest & non-judgmental approach, that respects their ability to make healthy choices, when given basic information on alcohol abuse.
